Nickname " Lytas "

Web | System | App developer

PROFILE

I'm a dedicated web developer with a creative flair and a penchant for turning lines of code into captivating online experiences. My journey in the digital realm began years ago, and I've since honed my skills in front-end and back-end development and also mobile applications for android.

My coding journey began during my college days when I stumbled upon a "Hello, World!" tutorial. Fast forward, and now I'm fluent in several programming languages. I've built everything from simple web apps to complex systems
